Executives Sentenced to 30 Days

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Two Westinghouse Electric Corp. executives exchanged business suits today for prisoners' blue denim as they began the second day of a 30-day sentence for violating antitrust laws in the giant electrical power conspiracy.

John H. Chiles Jr., 57, Sharon, Pa. and Charles I. Mauntel, 60, Drexel Hill Pa. chose unexpectedly to begin their jail terms Friday.

The two men, accompanied by their lawyers, surrendered to the U. S. Marshal in Philadelphia. They were silent and unsmiling. U. S. Dist. Judge J. Cullen Gurney, who had sentenced the two with five other high-salaried executives Monday for illegally fixing prices and rigging bids to stifle competition, granted the request for the early jail start. He had given the seven men a week to arrange their personal affairs. They earn up to $125,000 a year.

Four other prominent electrical firm executives, three from General Electric Co., start their jail terms here on Monday.

The seventh, John Marvin Cook of Milwaukee, vice president of Cutler-Hammer Inc., got a week's postponement so he can attend his daughter's engagement party.

The three GE officials are William S. Ginn, 45, a vice president from Schenectady, N. Y., who heads 17,000 employees of America's biggest electrical firm; Lewis J. Burger, Fort Wayne, Ind., division manager, and George E. Divens, Schenectady, vice president and divisional manager.

The other ordered jailed is Edwin R. Jung vice president of Clark Controller Co. of Cleveland, Ohio.

Judge Gurney, in winding up the criminal portions of the government's 18-month investigation of the electrical power industry, fined 29 firms and 44 of their executives a total of $1,924,500.

Civil damage suits by aggrieved customers of the firms—governmental agencies, including the U. S. government, and private utilities and businesses—are expected to be filed later this year. They probably will claim millions of dollars in damages.

New York in Grip of Cold and Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A liveried doorman, in rubber boots and ear muffs, stood in front of a Manhattan apartment house, and looked along the street at the eight-foot-high ridges of snow on either side.

Beneath were rows of entombed automobiles.

"I've never seen anything like it," he said.

Neither, in a long span of memory, had many another New Yorker. They, along with the rest of the heavily populated Northeast, have been buffeted by one of the harshest winters on record.

It has taken a shuddering toll: financial losses, life and discomfort.

The massive volume of the snow itself—52.7 inches so far this season in New York—already exceeded the entire total for any winter in 39 years, with the exception of the 63.5 inches of 1947-48.

And in some metropolitan areas, including adjacent New Jersey, even that all-time peak already surpassed by an overwhelming 34.8 inches.

Past records also toppled in Pennsylvania, where Harrisburg was sunk under a cumulative 67 inches of snow so far, more than in any other whole winter. One after another, for two months, the snows have come.

Coupled with the snow, 19 days of it in seven major downfalls during the last two months, have some relentless stretches of biting cold.

From the Carolinas northward, and even in Georgia, temperatures generally have been below average—by 4 degrees or more.

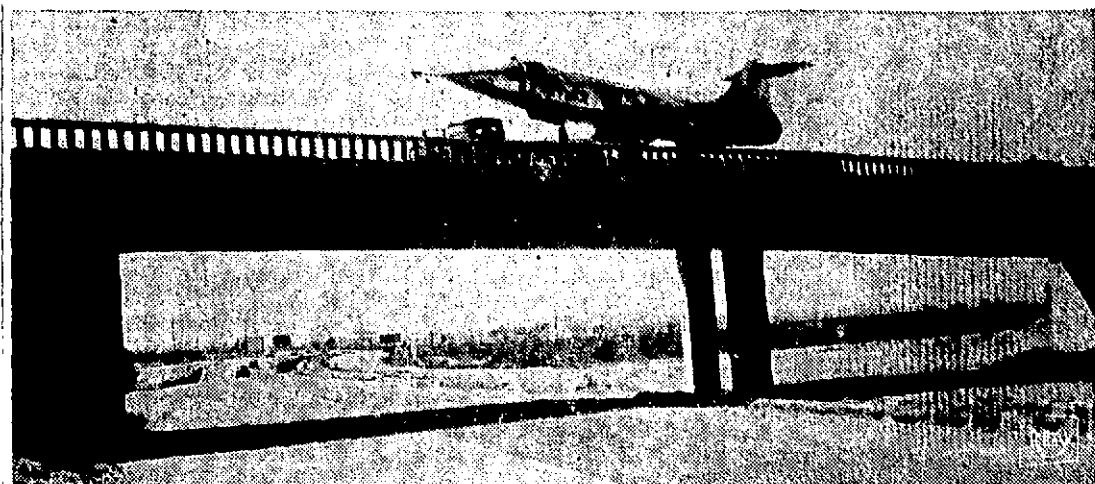

The 16 days of sub-freezing temperature that preceded last weekend's snow storm was the longest period of such frigid reading ever recorded in the annual of the New York Weather Bureau.

Bone Marrow Transplanted Successfully

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—An unusual transplant of bone marrow from one identical twin to another to combat a rare disease was reported a success today.

University Hospital, where the transplant was made, said only two other such attempts are listed in medical literature. Neither was successful.

The patient is Nancy Lowry, 7, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lowry, Tacoma, Wash. She had a bone marrow disease.

Nancy's twin, Barbara, underwent 50 needle punctures of her lower legs and pelvic bones so doctors could withdraw about a tablespoon full of bone marrow.

The marrow, in a salt solution, was dropped gradually into Nancy's bloodstream, as in a blood transfusion. Doctors say the marrow found its way to the bone spaces.

Nancy had aplastic anemia, in which the bone marrow is unable to form normal cells.

The doctors say they do not know whether the marrow from the healthy twin replaced Nancy's marrow, or whether it only functioned long enough for Nancy to recover and her own bone marrow to resume its normal function.

It now has been several months since the transplant.

"As far as we can tell," said a doctor who declined use of his name, "Nancy's bone marrow is working normally. We expect that it will continue to do so."

Lumumba Has Escaped in the Congo

By ADRIAN PORTER

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (AP)—The Katanga government announced today that it had Premier Patrice Lumumba and two political associates escaped Thursday night from a farmhouse where they had been kept prisoner west of Elisabethville.

A communiqué said the trio overcame and bound two sentries guarding them and fled in an auto with several rifles and enough gas to cover 60 miles.

Godefroid Munongo, the Katanga interior minister, indicated his government believed Lumumba, although his ultimate objective, presumably is Stanleyville, capital of the Congo's Oriental Province, which is controlled by troops and politicians loyal to him.

The Katanga government said it had blocked all roads leading from the province.

Lumumba previously had been reported in a prison at Jadotville, 65 miles northwest of Elisabethville, to which he had been moved.

State Loses University Status Fight

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas State College at Jonesboro has again lost a legislative fight for university status.

The Arkansas House Thursday voted 65-26 to kill an A-State sponsored bill to permit colleges to become universities if they meet certain standards.

All state colleges would be affected, but none, including Arkansas State, presently meet university requirements set out by the bill. Northeast Arkansas lawmakers pushed the measure.

Debate on the bill was orderly and brief, unlike the wrangle in the 1959 Legislature which threatened to disrupt the entire session.

Supporters of the bill this time laid their hopes on the premise that the bill would help all colleges. But opponents contended that a school cannot become a university merely by changing its name. They also said the bill carried a latent threat to the University of Arkansas.

Under the bill, a college's Board of Trustees could have the school a university if it had 2,000 full-time students, if it was accredited to grant master's degrees and if 90 per cent of its department heads held master's degrees.

Arkansas State meets the last two provisions, but has only 1,800 full-time students. At least 2,000 are expected in the near future.

The Senate's Education Committee Thursday tackled a "do pass" resolution on the Arkansas Education Association's teacher retirement bill, under which the state would pay up to 9.72 per cent of the teachers' salaries to the retirement fund.

A House committee took similar action Wednesday and the identical bills were ready Thursday for a vote in both houses.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus opposes the bills, saying the state's portion should be reduced to five per cent, which is the amount the teachers pay. Faubus has not introduced a bill setting out his proposals, and some legislators think this is a compromise invitation to the AEA.

Faubus once hinted he would veto the AEA plan if it got through both houses.

The Senate Thursday passed a bill to allow the State Hospital to reclaim about 800 acres near Benton from the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission and sell the land to finance hospital construction and repairs.

The Senate approved a bill to refund 4½ cents a gallon of the tax paid by intracity bus companies on gasoline. The vote was 21 to 9. Revenue Commissioner J. Orville Cheney said he didn't know how much revenue loss would be involved.

Sen. Dan Sprick of Little Rock, sponsor of the gasoline bill, said the measure was inspired by the financial plight of the Little Rock Citizens Coach Co., but that city has companies throughout the state needed tax relief.

A bill was introduced in the House Thursday to set up a $300,000 loan fund to help needy college students.

Pulaski Rep. Jim Brandon, the author, said an administrative board could lend up to $900 a year to a student. The money could be repaid in five to 10 years at two percent interest, unless the graduate moved out of Arkansas. Then he would have to pay 9.5 per cent interest.

The Senate Thursday passed 32-0 a bill to place a 10 per cent tax on admissions at Little Rock's War Memorial Stadium. Half the money would go toward improvements and expansion at the stadium.

The University of Arkansas plays three football games annually in the arena, and many have been sellouts recently.

The bill would strengthen the financial position of the stadium since it would provide that the other half the proceeds from the tax would aid in refinancing out.

Faubus Raps Appointment of Hays

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus today blasted proposed appointment of former Arkansas Rep. Brooks Hays as an assistant secretary of state in the Kennedy administration.

Faubus said newspaper reports that he had talked with Kennedy and approved the appointment were inaccurate.

"I told him (Kennedy) it certainly wouldn't raise any hell, but I certainly wouldn't advise the appointment," Faubus told a news conference.

"Brooks Hays will be about as much help to him as any 5-year-old kid you could pick out of the state and put in the same position," he added. Faubus then launched an attack on Hays which lasted several minutes.

"In a position like this you need a strong man," Faubus said. "Brooks Hays bends with every breeze like the weakest reed that ever grew. How can a man be of help in this difficult job?"

The New York Herald-Tribune said Thursday night that Hays, now a Tennessee Valley Authority director, would be named today as an assistant secretary of state for congressional relations.

Faubus and Hays split in 1957.

Child Buried 10 Hours in Snow Rescued

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—A 4-year-old girl was rescued early today from a pile of snow along a highway where she apparently had been buried for about 10 hours.

The child, Rose Mary Kinsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kinsey, was taken to Middlesex General Hospital suffering from a severe case of exposure.

Police Chief George Kane said he was convinced the girl was buried by a slide of snow from an adjacent rooftop while playing in the four-foot-wide alley adjoining her home, which is in a basement apartment.

When Rose Mary was reported missing, about 100 volunteers searched the entire area around the Kinsey home.

The child was found by William H. Keetley, 33, a salesman from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who was visiting friends in East Brunswick.

Keetley searched with others throughout the area, but decided around midnight to go back to the Kinsey house and "have another look around."

He was in the alley when he heard "what sounded like a puppy crying." There was only one ridge of untamped snow along the side of the house and Keetley dug in with his hands and found Rose Mary.

JFK Appoints Advisors on Gov. Revamp

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has selected four advisers on reorganization of the machinery of government. He also has abolished two committees set up for somewhat similar purposes.

The four appointees, who will work as individual specialists rather than as a committee, are: Robert A. Lovett, New York investment banker and a former secretary of defense and under-secretary of state;

Richard E. Neustadt, professor of government at Columbia University, who has been Kennedy's special consultant on organization problems;

Don K. Price, dean of the graduate School of Public Administration at Harvard University, who was an organization adviser to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower;

Sydney Stein Jr. of Chicago, in vestment counselor, who formerly was an official of the Budget Bureau dealing with management and organization matters.

Neustadt also is adviser to the Senate subcommittee on national policy machinery, which has been exploring methods of improving the government's machinery for making national security policy decisions.

The two committees abolished by Kennedy were the President's Advisory Committee on Government Organization, set up by Eisenhower in 1953 and the Advisory Committee on Management Improvement, set up by former President Harry S. Truman in 1949.

The four advisers will receive no salary but will be paid consultant's fees when serving.

Mail to Those Voting for Rules Change

Arkansans in Washington By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansas House members report they received fairly heavy mail from constituents on the enlarging of the House Rules Committee—a step which the house approved by a vote of 217 to 212.

The state delegation split 4-2 on the issue with Reps. Wilbur Mills, Dale Alford, James Trimble and Oren Harris supporting the proposal by Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., while Reps. E. C. Gathings and W. F. Norrell voted against.

Much of the mail went to the four who voted with Rayburn. It urged that they vote the other way.

However, several of the Arkansas House members said they thought the proposal was not fully understood by the public.

Likewise, several said, the objection to the enlargement appeared to come principally from Republicans and constituents who had not supported President Kennedy.

Alford probably received heavier mail on the subject than any of the Arkansans and he sent a two-page reply outlining the situation and discussing his position.

The fight, he said, was "not one of conservatism vs. liberalism" but one that developed into a prestige contest between Rayburn and Chairman Howard Smith, D-Va., of the Rules Committee.

He said no legislation was involved or at stake and the outcome had no bearing "on how I vote on specific legislation nor what legislation passes."

He also said the fight developed into "one of Democrats vs. Republicans" and had been "viciously and falsely misrepresented to the conservatives of this country."

"You know," he told his constituents, "I shall never compromise the civil rights issue."

This being the case, he said, he could see no reason for possibly jeopardizing the Arkansas River program by going counter to the House leadership.

What he did not say, but obviously had in mind, was that it lies within the power of the leadership to punish rebellious members by holding back on funds for their projects and sidetracking their bills.

While no one would say that any reprisals will be forthcoming, such things can be very subtle. There are more requests for money for projects than there is money available and, as Alford indicated, it would be possible for the leadership to shift, very legitimately.

February Is the Birth Month of Many Great Americans—Which Is Your Choice?

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Hope Star Feature Writer

Since the month of February is the birth month of so many great Americans, your inquiring Reporter asked several local people "In your opinion who was the greatest American?" Without exception each one confronted with this question replied, "No single person, but this is ONE of them and the reasons for my choice."

MRS. FRED FORMBY, Arkansas President of the American Legion Auxiliary, Thomas Jefferson, he was the first American champion of the common people. The Declaration of Independence which he wrote is a masterpiece of composition. He was a staunch advocate of education for all as a necessity for national growth.

W. S. ATKINS, local attorney and chairman of the Democratic Central Committee, "Abraham Lincoln, who exemplified the American tradition of freedom. Without background or a family tree, he proved that in this land of the free anybody can climb the ladder of fame. One of the greatest speeches ever made was Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. I am inclined to believe it was extemporaneous, and it certainly came from his heart."

REV. CLAYTON BELL, pastor of First Christian Church and retired U. S. Navy chaplain: "Benjamin Franklin, the first American foreign ambassador. He discovered electricity, invented bifocals, and wrote 'Poor Richard's Almanac.' He was the founder of 'The Saturday Evening Post.' His variety of skills and general wisdom in many fields make him outstanding."

MRS. P. L. PIERKINS, instructor of English and history in southern Arkansas schools for 35 years: "Franklin D. Roosevelt, a great President who showed courage in the face of personal disaster. His work with the U. S. government from his days as Secretary of the Navy to the establishment of international organizations like N. A. T. O. and the United Nations are never-to-be-forgotten. His fireside chats and creation of the March of Dimes showed his humanitarian aspects, and his revision of the American banking system during the depression of the '30's demonstrated his scholarly handling of a difficult situation."

PAUL W. KLIESCH, inventor, engineer, and Lt. Col., U. S. Army Res. Bldg.: "Charles P. Steinmetz, the hunchback, bachelor, German immigrant who contributed so much to the field of electrical engineering. His work at General Electric was so outstanding that the title he held, 'chief engineer,' was retired at his death in honor of him, though he was not born in this country, he became a naturalized citizen."

MRS. DICK WATKINS, State Genealogist in the Arkansas Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution: "The Unknown Soldier. Many American parents must have felt he was their son buried with honor for his sacrifice and not knowing could yet hope. I know of no other American to which more homage has been paid by representatives of so many countries."

Electric Co. Stock Dips on Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The price of Westinghouse Electric Co. Common stock broke $2.37 a share Friday on a delayed opening trade of 37,000 shares.

The big electrical goods manufacturing firm and others fined earlier in the week for antitrust violations face possible damage suits amounting to millions of dollars.

Westinghouse fell to $40.62 a share, down $6.87 from Monday's opening on the New York Stock Exchange.

It took one hour and 40 minutes to match a flood of sell orders with buy orders.

At that point, trading still had not opened in General Electric Co. stock which also was under pressure from an influx of sell orders.

On Monday and Tuesday, 29 electrical manufacturing companies and 44 of their officials were sentenced in federal court in Philadelphia on their pleas of guilty or no contest to 10 indictments in a giant antitrust case.

The federal government is preparing a suit to recover estimated losses as a result of the admitted.

Goldberg to Tour Areas in Trouble

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg leaves today on a three-day mission for President Kennedy to survey unemployment trouble spots in five states.

Goldberg, 52, had Chicago, Gary, South Bend, Lansing and Detroit on his first day schedule.

The labor secretary said that with half the nation's major industrial centers now classified as depressed, meaning a jobless rate of 6 per cent or more, he wants to talk over the problem with state officials, businessmen and labor leaders, and idled workers and their families.

Before taking off to inspect key communities in an area containing about a third of the nation's total 5,385,000 idled workers, Goldberg said from all indications the situation is growing worse.

The labor secretary said he intends to explain Kennedy's $1.2 billion emergency aid program for the unemployed, along with other administration plans designed to reverse the economic downturn and restore full employment.

A major purpose of the inspection tour, one of a planned series, is to show the degree of unemployment in large cities as contrasted with that in better-known chronic trouble spots such as West Virginia and eastern Pennsylvania.

Support for this view came in new data released by the Labor Department Thursday. It showed an employment decline of nearly 900,000 from a year ago in the nation's factories, most of them located in or near metropolitan areas.

Such cities as Philadelphia, Cleveland, Baltimore, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Kansas City and Newark are among 25 major industrial areas just added to the Labor Department's depressed list.

Detroit, the auto center where Goldberg stops tonight, showed an idle rating of nearly 12 per cent in the new Labor Department ratings. The Goldberg inspection party will go to Columbus, Ohio, Saturday, and to Pittsburgh Sunday.

The latest Labor Department figures show the economic situation is a paradox. There are 64,452,000 workers with jobs, the greatest number for that month in history. But there are 5,385,000 unemployed, largest total for January since the start of World War II.

Senate Okays Turnback to Cities

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Senate today passed 21-11 a bill designed to increase highway turnback to cities approximately $1.8 million a year.

The bill now goes to the House which has defeated a similar bill. The House may reconsider and pass the Senate bill if it wishes.

The bill, backed by the Arkansas Municipal League, would give the cities a big share of the $2 million a year previously committed for retirement of highway bonds.

It would change the formula to increase the percentage share to the cities and decrease that to the Highway Department.

"The counties share is deducted before this calculation is made. The Municipal League says that because of the increased revenue, the counties' share would be increased slightly, the state's share would be increased by about $2.3 million and the cities' share would be increased from $3,950,416 to $5,214,444."

The Highway Commission has opposed the bill, as it has others designed to divert money from the state highway fund.

The bill was brought up in the Senate by Morrell Gathright of Pine Bluff.

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP)—William Thomas Kidd, 77, of Murfreesboro, a former state senator, died today at his home here. A native of Pike County, he had practiced law for more than 50 years.

Secretary of Labor Says Recession Here

By NORMAN WALKER

DETROIT (AP)—Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg brought to hard-bitten Michigan today his pilgrimage to drum up nationwide support for President Kennedy's economic recovery program.

Goldberg said the nation is already in a full-fledged recession and "if we don't take proper action soon we'll be in a real depression."

The labor secretary has been touring depressed areas in Illinois, Indiana and now Michigan and planned to go later today to Columbus, Ohio, and Pittsburgh. At each stop he interviews idled workers and their families, and confers with political, business and labor leaders.

Goldberg, a former AFL-CIO counsel, found himself in a mild quarrel with a onetime union colleague, Walter Reuther, head of the Auto Workers Union. Reuther was among the union and auto industry figures with whom Kennedy's unemployment area emissary was to meet here today.

Reuther told a congressional committee in Washington Thursday he doubted that Kennedy's economic aid program goes far enough and that a Kennedy proposal to give business tax incentives was especially unnecessary and unwise.

Goldberg, asked at Lansing, Mich., Friday night about Reuther's position on the Kennedy tax proposal, replied with a smile that "I agree with my President (Kennedy) and, in this case, not with (union) President Reuther."

Reuther questioned whether tax incentives are needed to build new plants when so many are idled now. Goldberg told a Gary, Ind., audience that tax adjustments to let business modernize and rebuild plants and at the same time discourage location of plants abroad would be beneficial.

"I do not share the doubts of some labor leaders about the wisdom of this administration policy," Goldberg said.

But he said comment on Kennedy's plans from any source is a "healthy" thing.

In Michigan, Goldberg found economic conditions probably worse than any he has seen on his tour. There are 420,000 unemployed in the state, or 14.2 per cent of the work force, including 165,000 idled in the auto capital of Detroit.

Interest Bill to Hit House Trouble

under heavy guard from Thysville Military Camp outside Leopoldville on Jan. 18.

But the Katanga communique today said he and his associates escaped from a farmhouse near Kasaji, which is about 80 miles from the Angola border, on a highway leading across the frontier.

Munongo said the two other prisoners who escaped with Lumumba were Col. Joseph Okito and Maurice Mpolo.

Mpolo was youth minister in Lumumba's cabinet and Okito vice president of the Senate.

Outside Katanga government circles, the announcement of Lumumba's escape was taken with some skepticism.

Rumors have circulated in Katanga, Leopoldville, Brussels and at the U.N. headquarters in New York that Lumumba has been killed. U. N. officials and newsmen have been putting pressure on Katanga officials for proof that the ex-premier is still alive.

One diplomat, hearing of the escape report, commented that this would be excellent preparation for an announcement later that Lumumba and those with him had died, or been killed, while trying to flee the country.

Keeping Lumumba under confinement has been one of the major headaches of the central Congo government in Leopoldville since his ouster as Premier by Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu last fall.

He was put under house arrest in September. For weeks he remained in the official premier's mansion in Leopoldville, guarded by U. N. troops from Ghana who protected him against being arrested on a warrant issued by Congo President Joseph Kasavubu.

My Readers Speak Up

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

When humanly possible I believe that an unwed mother should keep her baby, for her own, as well as the baby's peace of mind.

"I disagree with all my heart," writes a mother of four, "I cannot and will not go along with the idea that two people should, after a fleeting moment of emotion, be let into the wonderful world of parenthood. Let them marry only if they think they can stay married. But for a child to be born to them only to be torn between them when they divorce — no!"

"Have the child out of wedlock. Give it for adoption and let the parents bear their cross in silence. It is today's pattern to day. 'Oh well, so they made a mistake. Who will be hurt?'"

"Who indeed? Family, friends, business associates, neighbors, the church, the child, the parents and God!"

A 15-year-old high school sophomore who signed herself N. E., complained that her parents restricted her social life. I replied that she should be grateful for her parents' concern, then added that in three short years she would be 18 and from then on responsible only to herself. Then came this letter:

Dear Helen:

My 18-year-old daughter tore your reply to N. E. from this newspaper and put it on my desk. She has been asked not to have company or dates from Monday through Thursdays or take part in other social activities during her first year of college.

Please explain what you mean by an 18-year old being responsible only to herself. —F. K.

Dear F. K.: At 18, a girl should be mature enough, provided she has been properly reared, to be on her own. In some states a girl comes of legal age at 18 and is given the right to vote. However, if your daughter accepts money from you to pay her college tuition and lives at home she is still beholden to you and morally obligated to obey your wishes.

I live with my aunt and uncle. My uncle says it is improper for me to accept clothing from a boy. He also says it shows disrespect for the boy friend to give me such things. We've been going together since last July. If it is disrespectful, why? Please print this. My folks read all my mail.

—M. A.

Dear M. A.: For a girl to accept gifts of wearing a apparel from a boy implies a degree of intimacy far from flattering to her. However, a sweater set hardly falls in this category and should be impersonal enough to satisfy even a prude.

While we're on the subject of moral behavior I think its time parents in general and your folks in particular were called to account for reading letters which don't belong to them, in your case, your mail. It is a grave moral, as well as Federal offense, to open a letter addressed to another.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Code for prayer and she offered the closing prayer.

The eleven members were served refreshments by the hostess.

Faubus Raps

when Hays tried to effect a compromise between the governor and President Eisenhower during the Little Rock school integration crisis. Faubus worked behind the scenes to help defeat Hays in the 1958 general election.

Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., an outspoken segregationist beat Hays, regarded as a moderate on racial matters, after a brief write-in campaign. Eisenhower named Hays to the TVA post.

Faubus said he did not advise against the Hays appointment because "I believe in anybody running his own business, but if he asks me I'll tell him. I told him this appointment would hurt him in this section."

Asked why he appeared so angry about the appointment, Faubus said, "I don't like to be talked to in confidence and then have it leaked from Washington sources erroneously."

Faubus talked with Kennedy in early January, but did not say what they discussed until today. Reports from Washington about the Hays appointment revealed that Kennedy had talked about the Hays matter with Faubus.

standing stadium bonds.

The Senate voted 29-0 Thursday to approve claims of $93,000 by the families of 21 Negro boys who died in a fire at the Wrightsville Negro Boys Industrial School March 5, 1959.

The House Thursday passed bills to set up a point system under which habitual traffic violators may lose their licenses and to provide that bond forfeiture in a drunk driving case is deemed a conviction.

Also passed were bills to require employers to pay legal fees to employees who have to sue for wages due, and to permit small corporations to report income as partnerships for state income tax purposes.

The House refused to recall from the Senate a bill passed Wednesday to plug loopholes in the use tax law. Sebastian Rep. Milt Earnhart urged recall, contending the House had inadvertently passed a tax increase measure. Earnhart said the bill would result in a $500,000 tax increase for Arkansas industry.

Introduced in the House Thursday were bills to tighten and clarify the state law on sale and possession of narcotics, and ban automobile graveyards within 1,000 yards of paved highways. The Senate voted down a $10,000 appropriation bill for a state horse show, 21-10.

The Senate passed an appropriation for $1,500 to erect a Capitol memorial to the late Secretary of State C. G. Hall.

Faubus Thursday signed into law a bill to provide a $20 million standby Highway Department bond plan. The Highway Commission may ask the governor to call an election to have voters approve up to $10 million in bonds per year for each of the next two fiscal years.

The bonds would provide emergency funds in case of the release of extra federal matching funds.

Another bill signed into law Thursday changes the name of the Arkansas Boys Industrial School to the Boys Training School. Another enlarges the Housing Authority Act to include cities of the second class and incorporated towns.

Weaver Has Problems in Housing Post

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert C. Weaver has won Senate confirmation as the government's top housing administrator but he faces two serious problems as he takes over this key post.

The Senate cleared the nomination Thursday night by voice vote after five hours of argument, putting Weaver in the highest position ever held by a Negro in the federal executive branch.

The vote had not been expected to come for about 10 days, but the Senate stayed in session late to approve Weaver under pressure from President Kennedy.

The New Yorker is expected to take the oath promptly so that he can assume command of the housing and home finance agency next week. This agency is down for almost a billion dollars in new funds in the budget now before Congress.

Weaver, 53, has been vice chairman of the New York City Housing and Redevelopment Board.

He said in a statement he was gratified by the quick Senate action.

One of the problems pressing hardest on Weaver arises from the current economic slump.

New housing starts are down sharply, yet the Kennedy administration is looking to a construction industry pickup as an essential element in its recovery program.

This was one reason the President urged speedy Senate confirmation.

Weaver told the Senate Banking Committee earlier this week that the average annual new start rate of about 1.2 million housing units in recent years is inadequate. He said it should be "a whole lot more." At the moment it is well under that average.

Some Southern senators and the one Republican who opposed Weaver said they feared his ideas on racial integration in housing might cause even further construction cutbacks.

Weaver's second headache appears likely to arise in the legislative field.

Several Southerners said in the debate that they feared Weaver as head of HHA might alienate Southern votes badly needed for controversial housing programs of the new administration.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., the Senate Housing subcommittee chairman, said he had been advised that the margin for public housing legislation in the House now is only five votes, with many of the supporters being congressmen from Southern states.

Left open was the question of whether the fight on Weaver, hardest made against any Kennedy nominee so far, would slow down administration plans to convert HHA into a full-scale executive department.

If this plan goes ahead and is approved by Congress, some senators assume Weaver will be named to head the department and thus would be the first Negro in the Cabinet. He would have to be confirmed again.

Eight Southern senators spoke against the nomination in the debate along with Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah.

Supporters largely confined themselves to statements that the New Yorker's long record in city, state, and federal housing agencies fully qualified him for the office.

Bennett agreed with several Southerners that Weaver was a zealot for racially integrated housing. The Utah senator said this would put the nominee on "a very hot spot," one "creating an almost impossible situation for him."

Sparkman said Weaver had assured the Senate Banking Committee he would not try to impose his own open occupancy ideas in administering the wide range of housing programs, but would follow the policies laid down by Kennedy and the Congress. "I expect him to live up to this," Sparkman said.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, assailed Weaver as "a man who has a pro-Communist background" and "belonged to half a dozen Communist-front organizations."

These charges were strongly denied by Weaver's supporters. Some of the "other Southerners who opposed him said they accepted Kennedy's assurances on the nominee's loyalty.

Sat. - Sun. - Mon. at Saenger

WALT DISNEY'S "SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON" STARS John Mills, Dorothy McGuire, James MacArthur and Janet Munro. This greatest adventure story of all times turns a tropical jungle into a island paradise, and was actually filmed in the West Indies.

Starts Tuesday at Saenger

"ESTHER AND THE KING" STARS JOAN COLLINS, Richard Egan and Denis O'Dea, and comes to the Saenger Theater Feb. 14-15-16.

Will Get a Present on Valentine

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—One of California's record number of 33 condemned killers now awaiting execution will get an official Valentine—notice of the date he is to die.

Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, was chosen Thursday by San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Frank B. Blum to set the execution date of Alexander Robillard XIV, one of seven men on San Quentin Prison's death row for killing policemen.

Today only one of the 33 condemned persons knows when he is due to die—April 12. He is Ronald Rittger, 24, a life-long criminal who once begged for the gas chamber and later changed his mind.

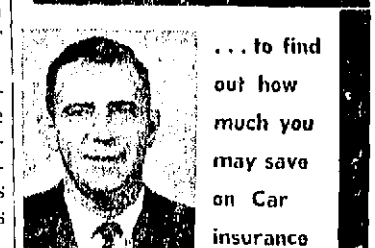

Most of those in death row are awaiting decision of the California Supreme Court, which automatically reviews each capital case. Eight others once had dates with death, but their executions were stayed for further appeals.

The number awaiting the gas chamber is unprecedented in any state. It has revived plans for abolition of the death sentence.

Ups Gas Tax

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Beginning April 1 Pennsylvania's gasoline tax will be raised from five cents to seven cents. The State Senate approved the measure Tuesday night.

WHAT EVER HAPPENED TO BABY JANE

By Henry Farrell

Copyright © 1960 by Henry Farrell Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

THE STORY: Edna Stitt, a cleaning woman who works for Blanche and Jane Hudson, senses something is wrong between the two sisters. Jane, a former child star, is filled with jealous hatred toward Blanche, who is crippled as a result of a car accident which was rumored to have been engineered by Jane. On her weekly visit to the Hudson home, Mrs. Stitt tries to see Blanche, but finds the bedroom door locked, and is not at home.

Chapter XVIII

For a moment Mrs. Stitt was held immobile by her own dismay. But then a surge of anger brought her quickly back to life again. Turning stiffly, she looked down the hallway in the direction of Jane's room. The door stood open letting a bright, slanting shaft of sunlight into the end of the hall. Mrs. Stitt started determinedly forward; if the key to Blanche's room was anywhere in the house it would be in there.

She pulled out the drawers swiftly, angrily, one after the other, exposing in the separate caches of cheap junk jewelry, artificial flowers, bright handkerchiefs and distasteful cosmetics. Finding nothing that even resembled a key, she shoved them closed again and turned her attention to the writing desk against the adjacent wall.

Having rifled quickly and fruitlessly through the random litter on top of the desk, the magazines and circulars, she opened the center drawer. She ran her hand toward the back of the drawer, found something there with her fingers and pulled it forward. It was an ordinary writing tablet with a brown cover. She was just about to thrust it back into the drawer in a gesture of disgust when something, scraps of paper, fell from between the pages and fluttered to the floor. Quickly she stooped down and picked them up.

She stood there for a moment, feeling a quick stab of apprehension that she didn't quite understand. They were checks, canceled checks; some of the ones that were always kept in the little accounts ledger in Miss Blanche's room.

Mrs. Stitt's gaze shifted to the tablet which she was holding open in readiness to receive the checks back again between its pages. Quickly she brought it closer to the light. Line after line was filled with Miss Blanche's name. "Blanche Hudson . . ."

The name had been repeated over and over again the full length of the page.

Mrs. Stitt's eyes moved swiftly back and forth between the tablet and the checks. It was plain as anything, Jane Hudson had been practicing writing out—forging!—Miss Blanche's signature. Her gaze bright now with real fright, Mrs. Stitt looked down the hallway in the direction of the locked door to Miss Blanche's room.

Mrs. Bates had spent so much time clipping the front hedge now that there just wasn't much left to clip. Earlier, seeing Jane Hudson drive off the car, she had quickly stationed herself at the hedge where she could watch for her return.

The newspaper clipping was one she had found in last night's paper. Crippled Star Regains Popularity via TV, it said in the heading. And there was a picture of Blanche, too, one of the old ones taken by the studio back in the '30s.

Mrs. Bates looked back along the even line of the hedge with a sigh of defeat; there just wasn't one more lick of anything left to be cut, and she couldn't just stand there, waiting, with nothing to do. She turned away and started back toward the house.

She had just reached the walk when she heard the sound of an advancing car and looked back to see the gray coupe cross the intersection. Casting down her shears, reaching for the pocket of her smock, she hurried eagerly forward.

"Miss Hudson!" Turning the corner, she made her way rapidly along the garden wall in the direction of the Hudson garage.

"Miss Hudson! I have something here for you—for you and your sister!"

Jane Hudson, emerging from the black mouth of the garage, stopped short in surprise, then took a quick step backwards in retreat.

Mrs. Bates, stopping before her, smiled broadly. "I guess I really ought to introduce myself," she said. "I'm Mrs. Bates — Pauline Bates — your new neighbor next door. I guess it's just about time we got acquainted, isn't it?"

A moment passed, uneasily. "Of course I already know who you are. I would naturally, though, because of your famous sister."

Noticing what appeared to be a sudden coloring in the plump, unpleasant face before her, she said, "I'm sure you know who I am. I would naturally, though, because of your famous sister."

"I'm sure you know who I am. I would naturally, though, because of your famous sister."

Let's make St. Valentine's Day unanimous.
Let's say "I love you" to at least one other person. It is a bright and good day in the Christian calendar. Every one of us is the better man because he dares to love. The heart and the cross belong together. You cannot truly love without honoring the principle of sacrifice. Saint Valentine was a Christian martyr, beheaded by Claudius, emperor of Rome about the year 50 A.D. He loved enough to surrender his life in the service of God. The heart and the cross tell us that God is love, that he loved enough to give all for us. Will St. Valentine succeed in winning you and me to a genuine love for God that will not count the cost? The best text for St. Valentine's Day is John 3:16.
